

Businesses that qualify for the Canada Emergency Wage Subsidy program (CEWS) who are receiving a subsidy used to pay employees who are on leave and not working, do not need to report the earnings received through the subsidy for those employees. Businesses are able to retroactively adjust insurable earnings reported from March 15, 2020 onwards. Use this worksheet to organize the amounts that you are able to exempt.

Additional information

- If you did not apply for the CEWS or have any employees on leave and not working, then you do not need to complete this form
- Before you begin, you will need the information you submitted to the CRA in order to calculate your CEWS amount
- You must retain a copy of this worksheet along with any documents to verify the amounts you paid your employees on leave and not working
- Send completed form to employeraccounts@wsib.on.ca
- Information provided in this worksheet will be used by the WSIB to make any required retroactive premium adjustments to your account and to help us keep track of businesses participating in the CEWS program who are deducting insurable earnings for employees on leave throughout the duration of the program
